Questions About High Salary

The salary of $10,000 a year paid to John Grierson, of the National Film Board, has been questioned in the House of Commons in Ottawa, and the question was asked why this official received $5,000 a year before he became head of the Wartime Information Board where he was paid $10,000 a year, returning later to the National Film Board at this last mentioned higher salary, though the actual work of this Board was reported to be the Federal Government should be ready to pay $15,000 to $20,000 a year, "if necessary," to a good person who could properly publicize this country to Canadians and the rest of the world. However, the Minister of National War Services, Hon. Major General L. R. LaFleche, explained this matter by stating that Mr. Grierson had received $10,000 a year before he became head of the Wartime Information Board.

Parliament and Progress

While it is still premature at this time to surmise exactly what reactions may result in a final way from the latest developments of the war ever since the opening of the new Western Front, yet it is most interesting to observe that by coincidence there has been a marked antipathy to make more rapid progress in the work of this session lately, with a serious effort having been made in Parliament already by Prime Minister Mackenzie King in order to urge once again greater speed in the rate of progress in the proceedings. He said in part: "I would be the last to impose any restraint upon the utterances of anyone, but I am confident that the feeling throughout Canada is that to-day we have reached the most serious moment in the history of the world, and that it is a part of our obligation to human society to avoid irrelevancies as much as possible."

Disclosure of Publicity Staffs

It has been disclosed in a return in the House of Commons that there were no less than 358 persons employed as public relations, press, publicity or liaison officers in departments or boards of the Government of Canada. A survey of these individuals were employed in war work. The Wartime Information Board about whose work considerable criticisms have been heard on various occasions along Parliament Hill had a staff of no less than 152 employees, and the Wartime Prices and Trade Board had 18 persons engaged on its public relations work.

Cost of Handling

The chartered banks of this country handle the ration coupons on a cost basis, and the Federal Government is paying between $55,000 and $65,000 a month. This has been revealed in Parliament by Douglas Abbott, Parliamentary Assistant to the Minister of Finance, Hon. J. L. Flinn.

Plans For Training Veterans

Though up to the time of the report there had been relatively few requests for vocational training on the part of veterans of the armed services, and no large number of such demands for training was expected until general demobilization, yet it has been reported in Ottawa that intensive plans are being created for giving such proper vocational training to veterans. This has been revealed, amongst other things, to the annual report tabled in Parliament by the Minister of Labor, Hon. Humphrey Mitchell.

Multiplication of Parties

Former Mackenzie King does not favor a political situation in this country which would encourage the multiplication of political parties in Parliament. He has indicated this opinion during a discussion in the House of Commons when the Prime Minister said: "My own belief is that there should be simply one government and one opposition party. I think it is a mistake to have the House divided into the Government and its supporters and three or four opposition groups, so that each time one of that number speaks the other three feel that they must also speak in their voice and say some thing."

New Canadians

The Secretary of State for Canada, Hon. Norman McLaughlin, has reported in Parliament that 62,185 persons have been naturalized as citizens in this country since the beginning of World War II, and these have included 5,340 Austrians, 1,312 Germans, 2,155 Italians, and 106 Japanese.

Total loss to some crops in Northern Italy and parts of France is expected, because of the great mechanized battle now in progress.

Warble Fly Control

Landscape Experiment Station

It could be said that this past spring was the first time in the history of ranching in Southern Alberta that the control of warble flies has been seriously considered and attempted by the ranchers. The number of cattle treated and the co-operation of all stock raisers suggest well for the effective control of this pest.

Mr. B. H. Palmer, Supervisor of Warble Fly Control, estimates that a total of 425,000 head of cattle have been treated in the province, and of this amount 200,000 head were treated by power spray machines. This means that by the use of these machines it has been possible to treat 200,000 head of range cattle that could otherwise not be treated, as it is considered impractical to attempt hand treatment of this vast cattle.

After such a splendid accomplishment it should not be taken for granted that this pest is controlled. From the small control areas of range lands there will likely be some grubs that have been missed by the spray and will be able to complete their cycle and reduce some of the cattle for the coming year.

There are also a few ranchers in every district who were unable to co-operate with their neighbors this year and lack of equipment prevented some herds from being treated at the most opportune time. However, these difficulties can easily be overcome in the future.

For the immediate future there will be a demand for all skilled men and women, two important factors in the manufacture of equipment. With this thought in mind, groups of ranchers should prepare for next season's program. They should place their orders for all necessary equipment, as the available. I think it is a mistake to have the House divided into the Government and its supporters and three or four opposition groups, so that each time one of that number speaks the other three feel that they must also speak in their voice and say some thing."

Deris Powder is a product that is not plentiful, and will be released in a very small quantity. The use of this powder for warble fly control has a high priority rating, but it is necessary to keep the amounts required so that it can be processed and released.

It can be readily seen that this planning should not be left until next spring. It would be well to get together now and arrange for machines and materials required for your district, as the government machines made available by the P.F.R.A. and Dominion Experimental Station may not be available here next year.

Searle Precipitation Report

(Compiled from the records of 622 Government and Private Rain Gauges. Reports up to and including June 19th.)

During the last week there has been an improvement of approximately 2 percent, up to the general average, compared with the previous week. The total monthly rainfall for the three previous months stands at 95.9 per cent of normal, compared with 91.8 per cent of normal a week ago and 101 per cent at this time a year ago.

For Alberta the total moisture condition is now 92.5 per cent of normal, compared with 75.7 per cent last week and 91 per cent at this time a year ago.

For Saskatchewan the same condition is now 92.5 per cent of normal, compared with 97.1 per cent a week ago, and 101 per cent at this time a year ago.

The Manitoba total moisture condition is now 100.4 per cent of normal, compared with 104.1 per cent a week ago, and 119 per cent at this time a year ago.

In Alberta Crop Districts 7, 8, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16 are all more than 100 per cent normal; Crop Districts 9, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 9 and 17 are all at least below normal.

In Saskatchewan all Crop Districts are normal or better than normal with the exception of Crop Districts 4 and 7 which are slightly below normal. In Manitoba all Crop Districts are much better than normal with the exception of No. 13, which is slightly below normal.

Because of the need for conserving power some machines are now being used to haul shipping cars several times over.

8,500 VETERANS

PLACED IN JOBS

More than 8,500 ex-service men of the present War have been placed in employment through national selective service in co-operation with the veterans' welfare officials of the Department of Pensions and National Health.

The system of caring for discharged members of the armed forces is being expanded and improved so that when large-scale demobilization comes plans and machinery for restoring veterans to civil life will be perfected.

The scale of grants and benefits payable to discharged service men has been increased. Starting on June 1, the allowance to those taking recreational

SEEDTIME AND HARVEST

Conserving Moisture
Crops sown in summertime this spring will benefit from moisture accumulated since about August, 1943, or well from this year which we all hope will fall this summer. After average conditions, the soil involves about 30 inches of precipitation.

Experiments conducted by the late Sidney Barnes at the Dominion Experimental Station, Swift Current, over a period of 11 years, have shown that study by all dry land farmers. Of the total precipitation which falls during the summertime period of 30 months (for example August, 1942 to August, 1943), not more than 50 percent is available to the summertime crop. What because of the rest?

1. Some percolates down through the soil; but this loss is negligible except in hard areas.

2. Some runs off the field.

3. A lot evaporates.

4. Too much is used by weeds.

We may ignore No. 1. Thatch cover and, where feasible, contour tillage will reduce losses from No. 2. Low furrows No. 3 is almost entirely unavoidable. With respect to No. 4, it is significant that Mr. Barnes considered that preventing weed growth was the most important feature of summertime tillage.

In his experiments, wheat yielded more than twice as much when weed growth on the fallow was prevented as it did when weeds were left alone until being plowed under on July 15th.

It takes at least 300 pounds of water to produce one pound of dry seed material.

British Furrier

Due To Lack Of Men, British Furriers Helped Out In A Rush. London fur trade today owes much to British furriers who have been trading a decade ago but now have retired to their old age.

British furriers this winter received their biggest wartime order—totaling nearly 750,000 yards, sheep, goat, mink, and even dog skin.

But due to lack of young furriers, retired furriers were called on their services—came back to London workers to carry out the order. If it hadn't been for them men, London's fur trade would have experienced one of its blackest seasons.

Handicraft Work

Provides Many Persons With An Outlet For Creative Work

Handicrafts are indispensable to the industrial economy even of such industrialized nations as Canada and the United States. Alan Bates, director of arts and social work for the Russell Sage Foundation of New York, said in Toronto.

Addressing the 150th annual meeting of the Canadian Handicrafts Guild, he said: "Men, women and handicrafts also have social, educational, therapeutic and aesthetic values as well as providing many persons with an outlet for their creative urges."

Speaking particularly of crafts in rural areas, he told how in the United States country people were supplied with surplus raw cotton and taught to make their own patterns. In the last two years more than 7,000,000 have been made by persons who did not have the money to buy them in the regular way.

The fact that so many residents of rural areas have come from handicrafts has been a boon in development of handicrafts. "If we have encouraged them to retain the best of their traditions and build upon the things that are in the blood we shall have the richest handicraft culture the western world has known."

They said these handicrafts had been used against them and that they had been killed by them. The wooden bullets splinter and make nasty wounds although their light weight increases accuracy at long ranges, they probably are used to 100 yards or so, Rangers said.

Scattering Pleasure

Growing Flowers For The Benefit Of The Pleasure

One hears from time to time of people with unusual hobbies. But one of the most interesting, most unusual, and most delightful of all hobbies is that of people who scatter flowers along highways, by and by railroad tracks. Returning later in the season, they see the fruits of their efforts in bloom between and there banishing darkness from what once were dingy and depressing surroundings. And if they don't retract their steps to see the results of their efforts, they know that others will enjoy the results of their plantings.

It is only small, but the many a smart effort, such a hobby gives a gratifying and worthwhile return—Hollis Hare.

THE POWER IN SIMPLE LIVING

(Matthew 23:1-12)

Golden text: But Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself with the king's delicacies, nor with the wine which he drank.

Lesson: Daniel 1:1-16. Downloaded Reading: Psalm 138.

Nebochadnezzar's Feast for Daniel and his Three Companions. Daniel 1:1-16.

1-7 It was in the third year of Jeconiah's reign (605 B.C.) that Nebochadnezzar, King of Babylon, captured Jerusalem and carried back to Babylon Jewish captives, together with some of the treasures of the temple. "Think of the land of Palestine," says the Bible, "which was taken by the king of Babylon or Chaldeans." (Daniel 1:2)

8-12 The king of Babylon directed one of his officers to take Jewish youths of noble families who were especially gifted with wisdom and understanding, and what has been called "the Prince of the Chaldeans" (Daniel 1:3) to be trained in the language and learning of the king's court.

13-16 A number with a portion of the Bible text were selected to be trained in the language and learning of the king's court. Daniel and his three companions were chosen to be trained in the language and learning of the king's court.

17-20 The king of Babylon directed one of his officers to take Jewish youths of noble families who were especially gifted with wisdom and understanding, and what has been called "the Prince of the Chaldeans" (Daniel 1:3) to be trained in the language and learning of the king's court.

21-24 The king of Babylon directed one of his officers to take Jewish youths of noble families who were especially gifted with wisdom and understanding, and what has been called "the Prince of the Chaldeans" (Daniel 1:3) to be trained in the language and learning of the king's court.

25-28 The king of Babylon directed one of his officers to take Jewish youths of noble families who were especially gifted with wisdom and understanding, and what has been called "the Prince of the Chaldeans" (Daniel 1:3) to be trained in the language and learning of the king's court.

29-32 The king of Babylon directed one of his officers to take Jewish youths of noble families who were especially gifted with wisdom and understanding, and what has been called "the Prince of the Chaldeans" (Daniel 1:3) to be trained in the language and learning of the king's court.

THE KING MAKES SURPRISE VISIT TO NORMANDY AND IS CHEERED BY THE TROOPS

UNITED STATES AIR FORCE CARRIES OUT A DESTRUCTIVE RAID ON JAPANESE MAINLAND

ABOARD THE "CHURCH" AIR-THUNDER. The King visited the front today, the first time since the war.

The King crossed on this coast and landed on an amphibious "cock".

Before returning safely to the coast port, he conferred the C.B.E. on Major-General, Commander of the Canadian 3rd Division, in an open-air ceremony in this area.

The last time the King was in France was in 1918, when he toured the Magdalen coast and did not see any fighting.

It is four centuries since a foreign army of British and French troops on Normandy in the year 1066 and everyone in the group knew the King was the first abroad in the assault landing and the first in the assault of the ocean.

The King landed at beach 30 west of Caen where the Canadian beach was stormed on D-day. As he rode in a motor launch from the Amphibious Landing, the King was the first to see the beach.

Two British destroyers, the Arcton and Uranus, escorted the Church and Sybil, driving seawards, provided continuous cover from the moment of sailing until the King's return here.

Rommel piped the King on board the Arcton and its minutes later they were underway for France.

There was a fresh breeze whipping the sea and the King had to "jump for it" over the cruiser's side into the motor launch. We anchored about three miles out and again from the motor launch the King "jumped for it" into the waiting dock.

The visit had been kept secret. Working parties of troops on the beach told us that as Montgomery's operations staff came there, they recognized the King, and ran along side cheering.

With an escort of British and American military police, armed with Tommy guns, the King's car passed along the straight Normandy road, through the little village of Orville, St. Mer and Elbeuf, which were in German hands only a few days ago.

Shells had wiped out many of the houses, and big buildings were busy with the roads and filling in craters.

Montgomery took the King straight to his advanced headquarters.

While he and the King sat at lunch, shells screamed high over head, and the chateau walls shook with the thud of heavy explosions.

After lunch the King held an open air luncheon in the chateau grounds.

Seven officers and men, headed by the King, were decorated. Some 400 troops, Canadians among them, were in the line of honor.

At the end of the luncheon, the King was seen to shake hands with the "ceremony."

CHANGES IN REGULATIONS FOR EX-SERVICE MEN

OTTAWA.—Prime Minister Mackenzie announced that an order-in-council has been passed making widespread changes in regulations under which ex-servicemen receive medical and other treatment after discharge.

The minister said the changes were designed to simplify and consolidate existing regulations to ensure economy, to raise treatment, and where necessary, to improve services on a woman's illness following an attributable to service.

The new regulations there were 21 classifications under which an ex-serviceman or woman might receive treatment. But the new regulations have been reduced to 13 without any lowering rights to treatment being lost.

WOMEN SNIPERS AMONG ENEMY WAR PRISONERS

LONDON.—Armed women, some French, some German, are a thorn in the side of the Allied soldiers fighting in Normandy.

Gen. Montgomery himself warned the troops of the existence of the women snipers and already two sharp-shooting pro-Axis women are among the enemy prisoners of war who have arrived in England.

One of these is a gentle-natured French widow who was said to have fought by the side of the Germans during the battle of France. She was the sat at the bedside nursing of her home in a small French village, sniping at British naval units that had occupied the town.

Canadian snipers found the woman wounded at the foot of the staircase.

One of the women snipers from other villages, the woman, now in a Canadian camp, is said to have been a sniper during the battle of France.

More Atrocities

War Crimes Commission in Britain
Is Keeping Tab

The war crimes commission, which meets in London, is being kept busy these days with each other's atrocities. It is a record, says a few French in London.

Case 1—in the town of Ribes, March 24. The German officer, General Andre A. Vasson's (reputedly a Frenchman) and his French volunteers of the Blue Brigade, they surrounded the town and at 11 o'clock made a house-to-house search.

About 100 persons were arrested and put in trucks. No one was seen alive. Eight citizens were killed on the spot, including two young men, who were accused of letting the Germans' (reputedly as resistance groups living in the town) take shelter.

All those arrested were killed and all those who were left, the Germans and the adjoining woods. In the woods were numerous French people collected around.

Case 2.—Bouillon, March 26. Twenty-six hostages were shot and their bodies left in a public square for 24 hours.

Case 3.—Department of Tarn-et-Garonne at great close of 20 miles and the arrest of people as they were leaving the town.

Fifteen farms in the outskirts of the town of Tarn-et-Garonne, they were looted and burned. The village church was pillaged and its contents destroyed.

Case 4.—A department—later in May, the Germans, with the aid of many soldiers, they entered the monastery of Notre Dame des Dunes, about two miles and pillaged the monastery.

Insect Life

They Greatly Exceed Any Other Form Of Life Today

Each year, during the summer, we are overwhelmed by the abundance of insects. They do not doubt that these creatures greatly exceed the number of other living animals of the earth.

A study of fossils proves that insects have an ancient origin. They are believed to have lived since the Cambrian period, three hundred million years ago. By visiting the Ontario Museum, one may catch a glimpse of the insect life of the past.

There will not find anything as new to learn, it is hardly surprising. They never seen a fatal case of plague in the history of the world. They never seen a fatal case of plague in the history of the world.

Have Been There Before

English Armies Occupied All Of Normandy At One Time

From study of history the English might almost have guessed that Normandy would be the leading point of Allied forces. The English, at one time, had been there before. The Norman conquest of England began large in history books.

It is a matter of record that the English, centuries later, invaded, subjugated and possessed the French province. At Saint Vast in Rouen, mentioned in account of the current invasion, the English had an army in 1445 and had made the land.

In 1445 the English landed 60,000 men at Saint Vast and defeated the French at Agincourt, occupying in the following years the whole of Normandy. These were English armies because the Normans were then under English rule.

Normandy who crossed the Channel in 1960, under William, lived as the English, administered according to English law and in time were "not among the people of the land."

They have lasting influence on the language and learning and architecture of that people.

It was mostly from Normandy that the early settlement of French Canada took place and the monument in the museum on the Plains of Abraham are carved the names of some of the French soldiers who migrated to this land and whose descendants are found today throughout the province.

It was the great-grandfather of the chief part of landing for British troops at the start, but the northern half of the province was taken by the first Canadian contingent went and it landed at St. Nazaire, N.S.

Women In Britain Are Now Working On Bombs And Black Bombs

Women of Britain not only are taking over much of the munitions work these days—they are stepping into the shoes of their men.

They have done more and more since the outbreak of the war. The women of Britain are now working on bombs and black bombs.

From Norway came this tale of how some boys discovered 60 letters "new order" among them.

They played a bundle of underground newspapers in an Oslo office building late last week, notified Gestapo plainclothesmen that the papers were to be taken up by patriots.

They then called a well-known police station, reported about the papers and were told to wait.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

Luncheon At One-Thirty

By EDNA BLISS MIDDLE

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Even the prospect of luncheon for forty failed to shake Selma's dried-up appetite that hot summer morning, she took the usual time to bathe and dress before she descended to the kitchen. On the table she gathered up a row of nuts and cream. It was a little difficult to find room for them in the already over-crowded refrigerator, but she managed to squeeze them in.

"Selma!" Selma's in the kitchen, she thought as she plopped back and forth from porch to kitchen, "Selma!" Selma's in the kitchen, she thought as she plopped back and forth from porch to kitchen, "Selma!"
